Bull Traders Hold Carnival in the Share Market.

Prices Pushed Up One to Three Points All Along the List.

Bank Statement Shows Loss of $1,300,000 in Reserve—The Quotations.

There was a tremendous speculation at the stock exchange this morning—the largest in years. The outside took the bit in his teeth and fairly ran away with the professional. London, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Boston, and, in fact, every leading city had orders in the market to buy stocks at an early hour, and they were duplicated over and over again up to the very close of business.

The foreigners, who have made a barrel of money in wheat, have been buying stocks for a week. To-day they were frantic and, according to Associated Press advices, the excitement in London in the American department was as high as it has been.

Room traders and other operators who were formerly forced into buying stocks during the past week, sold heavily, but their offerings were so rapidly absorbed that they stood in amazement and finally quit.

The movement of grain and Chicago to-day was given at 2.30 cent—losses.

The gain in prices ranged from 1 to 3 points, the standard stock as well as the specialties participating in the rise. The closing was buoyant.

Sales at the New York Stock Exchange were 256,264 shares of listed stocks and 83,000 of over.

The bank statement showed a decrease in surplus reserve of $1,341,975. This was much smaller than was generally expected. The banks held $1,110,300 in excess of the 25 per cent legal requirement, whereas, at the same time last year they were $536,070 below the limit.

The following are the comparative figures:

Assets	1890	1891
Loans	$2,525,455,500	$2,525,455,500
Deposits	65,585,000	65,585,000
Reserve	1,110,300	1,110,300
Surplus	1,110,300	1,110,300

Rumors About Union Pacific.
A despatch from Chicago was received here to-day, stating that Jay Gould has virtually relinquished control of Union Pacific and that a majority of the stock has been placed in the hands of Drexel, Morgan & Co.

It was also stated that Sidney Dillon would resign the Presidency, and that the Vanderbilt-Morgan interest would elect the new man, they having control of the stock.

The report was not believed in Wall street.

BALMACEA FLEES. EIGHTY-TWO YEARS YOUNG.

His Army Routed and Valparaiso Captured by the Insurgents.

5,000 Killed and Wounded in the Decisive Battle.

The Victor So Orderly that the Intervention of Foreign Fleets Is Unnecessary.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
LONDON, Aug. 29.—Official despatches received in Berlin and Paris confirm the announcement that the city of Valparaiso has been captured by the troops of the Congressional party of Chile.

The order of the day, which the Congressional forces have occupied the strategic points and the quiet prevailing throughout Valparaiso have been so marked that the admiral in command of the foreign fleets in Chilean waters have decided that there is no need for any intervention on the part of the assembled fleets to protect the foreign population of Valparaiso.

The troops of the Junta soon resolved to give further good options for themselves by abstaining from any acts of unnecessary violence.

The Globe says that the Congressional victory gives the Republic a much more serious complexion, adding:

"Had Balmaceda won no diplomatic dispute and no military victory, he would now have to explain what appears to be a flagrant breach of neutrality."

Nothing in regard to yesterday's battle at Valparaiso had been received at the headquarters of the Congressional party in this city.

BALMACEA'S DEFEAT.
The Decisive Battle in Which His Forces Were Utterly Routed.

Despatches from Valparaiso, Chile, received in this city announced this morning that President Balmaceda's forces had been defeated by the revolutionists, and that Balmaceda himself was practically a fugitive.

The decisive battle occurred yesterday and resulted after five hours' hard fighting in the scattering of Balmaceda's army beyond all hope of reorganization and in the revolutionists' possession of the city.

There has been a constant series of maneuvers for position ever since the arrival of the Congressional army at Vina del Mar. In nearly all of these the revolutionists have had the better of it.

The revolutionist Gen. Cantu's position was on the hills above the race track at Vina del Mar, outside of Valparaiso. He had absolute control of the railroad to Santiago, and commanding the ordinary roads, Santiago was practically in a state of siege.

Led by generals Barboza and Alzoreca, the Government troops left their headquarters and advanced on the enemy under cover of a heavy fire from their batteries.

As the day wore on and stragglers from the beleaguered city were seen, President Balmaceda took alarm and went aboard the German flag ship and asked protection.

To avoid bloodshed, Admiral Viel, the Intendente, surrendered Valparaiso to General Cantu, and the German flag ship was taken to the harbor.

Shortly after noon the victorious army began to enter the city, and the revolutionists' chiefs of staff being at the head of the troops, the torpedo boat Almirante Lynch at once began to escape, but after a short engagement of fifteen minutes surrendered.

Said to be a knowledge of the whereabouts of President Balmaceda, and the general belief is that he is making his way out of the country, perhaps overland to Buenos Aires.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes. EIGHTY-TWO YEARS YOUNG.

He Receives Many Congratulations at His Home in Boston.

Dr. Holmes was born in Cambridge, Aug. 29, 1809, in the old gamblerooted parsonage built and occupied by his father, Rev. Abel Holmes, still standing in the inclosure of Harvard College.

Dr. Holmes was born in Cambridge, Aug. 29, 1809, in the old gamblerooted parsonage built and occupied by his father, Rev. Abel Holmes, still standing in the inclosure of Harvard College.

His father's early education was supervised by his father, and after a year at Phillips Andover Academy he entered Harvard College at the age of sixteen.

He married, in 1840, Miss Amelia daughter of Supreme Court Judge Jackson, of Boston. She bore him three children, of whom the eldest, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., is now occupying his grandfather's seat on the bench.

Dr. Holmes's first published poem, "Old Ironsides," was printed in the Boston Herald in 1830, his favorite poem, "The Chambered Nautilus," probably his series of talks by "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," and his most widely read of his works.

In his old age, Dr. Holmes passes his time mainly in his library, from the windows of which he can look across Charles River to his birthplace. He walks about the city with a cane, and is often seen in the company of his friends.

In his early prime he was the intimate associate of Charles Sumner, Hawthorne, Lowell, and many other prominent men of his time.

NURSE METTLER'S SCREAMS.
She Raised a Crowd and Caused Four Arrests.

People living on Third street, in the neighborhood of Twenty-fourth street, were aroused at 3 o'clock this morning by the screams of a woman in the street.

A crowd quickly gathered, and Policeman John H. Donovan, of the East Twenty-second street station, rushed to the spot. He found a young woman in a light colored dress lying apparently unconscious in the arms of a young man, who looked like an actor.

The man appeared to be under the influence of liquor, but he managed to tell the policeman that his friend had suddenly fainted.

The policeman tried to rouse the woman, but failed, and he summoned an ambulance, in which she was taken to the hospital.

Policeman Donovan arrested the woman's companions and took them to the East Twenty-second street station.

There they gave their names as Sydney Brown, an agent of 40 West Twenty-eighth street, and George T. Moon, an actor, who lived in Brooklyn.

The woman proved to be Miss Ida Mettler, a professional nurse, of 51 East Twenty-third street.

At the hospital it was found that she was simply intoxicated, and when she recovered she was taken to the hospital.

THE CLOTHES OF THE MISSING COUPLE. IDENTIFIED THIS MORNING.

Were Baker Thornton and Miss Eva Jewell Lost in the Surf?

Coney Island's police have a case on their hands which is check-full of mystery and puzzling even to that keen-witted autocrat of gravestone, Chief John Y. McKane. In fact, McKane said this morning:

"It's a very queer case, and I hardly know just what to think of it."

Still there are very serious elements in the affair, which involves two lives, those of a man and a woman.

When it came to looking up time last Thursday night at Balmaceda's Coney Island Bathing Pavilion, an attendant found one of the men's boxes locked. This was unusual, as at that hour everybody had left the water and the pavilion, and all the keys had been returned except two.

An examination of the other dressing boxes revealed a locked bath-house in the women's section. The doors of both were broken open, and a complete outfit of wearing apparel was found in each.

Pavilion-keeper Balmer feels confident that the owners of the clothes, a man and a woman, have met with a violent death in the surf.

The clothing of the missing couple was positively identified by the attendant at the bath-house as that of Samuel Thornton, 25 years old, tinner and collector at 409 Myrtle avenue, and Eva Jewell, aged 19 years, his sister-in-law, who worked for him, and lived at 277 Cumberland street.

The identification was made by Joseph Wilson, of 724 Fulton street, who worked with Thornton at the bath-house. He had seen the clothes of the missing couple at the bath-house, and he was positive that they were the clothes of Thornton and Jewell.

It is clear by this that every Alderman of the city will be liable to $100 fine, to be collected in a civil suit, as well as guilty of a misdemeanor if the tax books are not ready for collection in the hands of the Receiver of Taxes next Tuesday.

The penalty for this neglect is fixed by section 824 of the Consolidation act, which is to the effect that any Alderman who neglects to perform any of the duties required of him in relation to the tax books, shall be liable to a civil suit, and shall also be punishable as a misdemeanor.

It is clear by this that every Alderman of the city will be liable to $100 fine, to be collected in a civil suit, as well as guilty of a misdemeanor if the tax books are not ready for collection in the hands of the Receiver of Taxes next Tuesday.

The Board attached to the first of its duties regarding the taxes properly by receiving the assessment rolls the first Monday of July, and President Arnold issued an order directing the Board to extend the time for the payment of taxes to the first Monday of August.

The Tax Department has not obeyed the direction of President Arnold, for the principal reason that the Receiver of Taxes has not yet determined the tax rate for the year, and no extensions can be made until the rate is fixed.

It is doubtful, too, if the Tax Commissioners will consent to do the work, as it is now the duty of the Receiver of Taxes to make up the assessment roll for next year.

The present Board of Aldermen is the first to subject itself to indictment for violation of the sections of the Consolidation act in relation to taxes. Every Board for the last fifteen years is said to have been equally culpable.

There is a cause for this neglect of duty, which is now called custom. This system was inaugurated, it is said, for the purpose of saving the city which is given to the Mayor prior to Jan. 1 of each year.

If the tax books were delayed into October or November the rebate would be considerably less than if the tax books were ready for collection at the time required by the law.

Will the Aldermen be indicted?

ALL LIABLE TO INDICTMENT FOR VIOLATING THE LAW AS TO TAXES.

Lists Will Be More Than a Month Late in the Collectors' Hands.

Only herculean efforts can prevent the twenty-six members of New York's Board of Aldermen from becoming subject to indictment for a misdemeanor for neglect to perform an official duty enjoined on them by the Consolidation act.

Sections 831, 832 and 833 of that act relate to the duties of the Board in connection with the annual tax levy.

Section 833 provides that the Aldermen shall annually deliver to the Receiver of Taxes, on or before Sept. 1, the assessment rolls for the year, with the taxes properly rated and extended on each assessment, so that the Receiver may begin the work of collection.

How this can possibly be done this year is a conundrum, which the Board will find it difficult to solve, as it has not even fixed the tax rate yet, and the next meeting is called for Sept. 8.

A special meeting might be called for Monday or Tuesday, but it would not be advisable to speculate heavily in futures on the condition. It will last until to-morrow, Monday, he thinks, it will be warmer, but he is encouraging to this extent: He will not say that a hot wave will follow.

Philadelphia, Washington, Boston and St. Louis also enjoy, welcome relief from heat to-day. The thermometer in these cities again cooled somewhat with the record in this city at 62 degrees. In Albany and Chicago it was two degrees cooler.

The fall of sixteen degrees came unexpectedly. Even Mr. Dunn was not prepared for it, but the changes of the weather no longer surprise him.

The local forecast for to-day is: Fair; a light breeze from the north; gradually clearing; a few clouds; western winds. Sunday, fair and cooler.

Coroner's Jury's Verdict on the Barge Republic Disaster.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
COLD SPRING, L. I., Aug. 29.—The jury which, with Coroner Rodman, of Suffolk County, has been investigating the disaster on the excursion barge Republic, Aug. 12, by which thirteen lives were lost, returned a verdict this morning.

The jury finds that the thirteen persons were killed by the falling of the roof of the barge, and that the accident was due to the high and bad construction of the barge, and the rotten condition of the masts.

Coroner Rodman will place the verdict and the testimony in the hands of the District Attorney. The owners of the Republic will have to face many suits for damages for loss of life and injuries sustained.

Mercury Drops Sixteen Degrees in Farmer Dunn's Thermometer.

Citizen Dunn, of the Equitable Building, declares that to-day's change in atmospheric conditions is not an indication of an early ice crop.

He says high pressure on the cold wave which caused the recent frosts in the Northwest, have forced it East.

The coolness is general throughout the territory east of the Mississippi, with the exception of one town in Florida, which rejoices in the name of Jupiter, and reports 82 degrees of heat.

The most decided fall in temperature occurred in the vicinity of this city. The official thermometer registered 60 degrees at 5 o'clock this morning, 10 degrees lower than at the same time yesterday.

Humidity has been in such weather as this, and there wasn't enough to-day to be worth mentioning for which all New Yorkers who have been smothered and perspired under its depressing influence for a week past are truly thankful.

The summer resorts was in consequence not very big to-day. New York was as cool as any summer resort.

Mr. Dunn says it will be warmer, but he is encouraging to this extent: He will not say that a hot wave will follow.
